

January 2010

Press Release

Top Fifty Golfer Links with Air Energi Group

The Air Energi Group, headquartered in Manchester, UK, have announced that professional golfer Jamie Donaldson, will be their representative on the European Golf Tour in 2010. Born in Pontypridd, Wales on 19 October 1975, Jamie turned pro in 2000. In 2001 he won the Russian Open and the Telia Grand Prix in Sweden on the Challenge Tour, and claimed second place in the Challenge Tour Rankings. He spent the next 5 years playing on the main European Tour.

Troubled by back problems that began in 2004, Jamie suffered a disappointing 2006 season, which saw him return to the Challenge Tour in 2007, where he soon set about regaining his card through the Challenge Tour Rankings with a victory in one of the first events of 2007, the Abierto Telefonica de Guatemala.

That victory was followed with six top four finishes before ending the '07 season in style at the Apulia San Domenico Grand Final, where a second place finish ensured he would end the year in fourth place on the Rankings.

Jamie found consistency back on the The European Tour in 2008, including top ten finishes at The European Open, the SAS Masters and the Alfred Dunhill Links Championship.

2009 was a continuation of his improvement in 2008 and a breakthrough into the money-list top sixty. He capped several top tens including a 2nd place at the SAS Master, a fourth place at the Portugal Open, a fifth place at the KLM Dutch Open and a 6th at the Johnny Walker, with a place in the Race to Dubai end of season final and selection into the Omega World Cup team representing Wales, played at Mission Hills in China.

“ Air Energi Chairman
Ian Langley commented:

We're looking forward to working with Jamie. He's a great bet for 2010 and a real improver on the tour. As well as the Air Energi logo on his shirt, Jamie will act as an ambassador for the group. We hope our clients and staff will support Jamie this year and that many will get to meet and play with him and hear about life on the tour.

”

Air Energi has been a global provider of manpower solutions to the energy sector for over three decades and is now operational in over 50 countries. We aim to build long-term relationships with all our partners, to help achieve a commercially satisfactory outcome to every project and to maintain those relationships on successive projects into the future.

Our unique consultancy approach, problem-solving skills and comprehensive service provision enables us to provide significant benefits to our clients and puts us at the forefront of international energy recruitment.